To this will be added in miscellaneous fashion, a jar of home canned fruits brought to the society by generous people or to supplement this comparatively small amount, were purchased canned fruit. SAPULPA, Dec. 19.—In a three-hour talk to seventy-five Creek county women democratic leaders here this afternoon, Ben F. Lafayette, chairman of the democratic state central committee, urged the women voters to assert their authority at the coming election. ## INDIAN BODIES REMOVED

Cemetery Yields Up Skeletons to Make Way for City Addition.

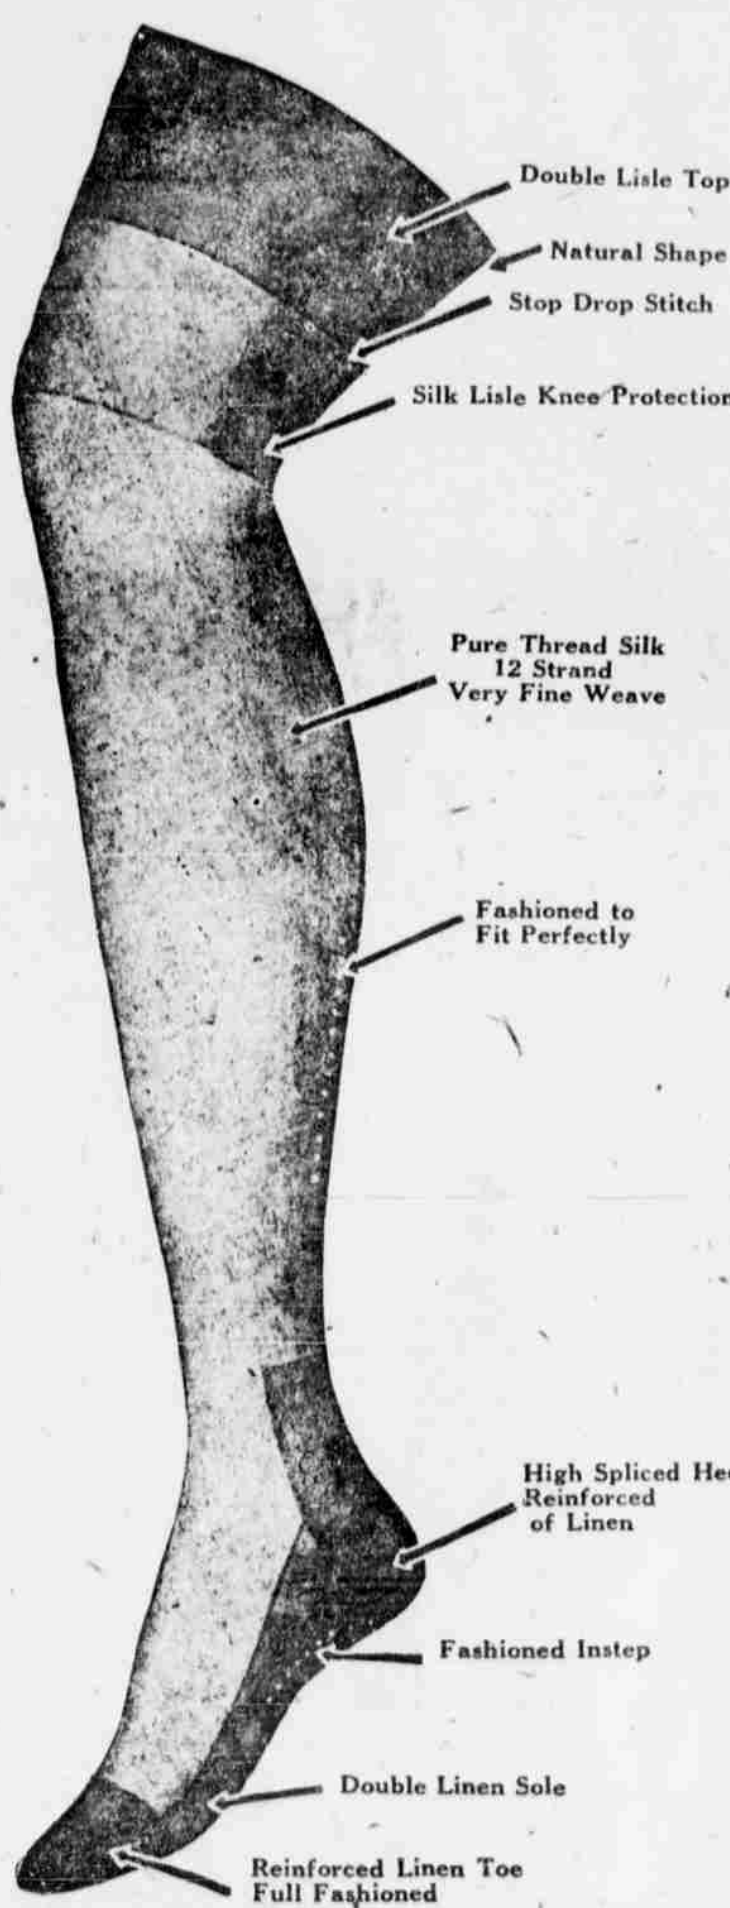

The old Creek Indian private burial ground south of Sunset addition on property now owned by M. R. Travis yielded up its contents Monday and the bodies of 17 members of the Tuckabache connection were removed by the Mowbray Undertaking company to a section in Oaklawn cemetery. Travis arranged the removal in preparation for the opening of a 120-acre residence district in the spring.

Thomas Hickory, an Indian farmer whose three children are great-grandchildren of Tuckabache, pointed out the location of 11 graves which bore no headstones. The age of the cemetery could not be fixed exactly as it is not known whether or not the body of Joe Star, whose death in 1873 was the oldest recorded, was buried on this spot originally or was transferred from another place. At least one of the pots for this purpose began in 1880, when Ned Tuckabache and Lou Scott were laid away. Tuckabache, the head of the family, was an Indian fullblood who lived in his vicinity for years and was thought to have been a hundred years old at his death in 1910.
